GALILEO P-39432 GLL/GA2

This first image of asteroid 951 Gaspra was taken by the Galileo spacecraft on October 29, 1991, from a distance of 16,200 kilometers (10,000 miles). The Sun is shining from the right. The illuminated part of the asteroid is about 16 by 12 kilometers (10 by 7.5 miles). The surface shows many craters; two large facets about 8 kilometers (5 miles) across appear on the limb of the asteroid at top and bottom right. The smallest craters in this view are about 300 meters (1,000 feet) across. Gaspra rotates in a counter-clockwise direction in just over 7 hours; its north pole is near the upper left corner of the lighted part of the asteroid.

The Galileo project, whose primary mission is the exploration of the Jupiter system in 1995-97, is managed for NASA's Office of Space Science and Applications by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

As to observations made this past month, the annual Chiricahua trip was fun and successful. I got my first view of a neat elliptical galaxy (E0) NGC404 in Andromeda. This object is so easy to find its pathetic! Its right next to β Andromedae; within the view of a low power eyepiece (non-widefield)! You can't miss it. The next star party was the scheduled visit to the Arivaca site but , unfortunately, we were clouded out. However all was not lost as Mr. Ketelsen brought out a BBQ grill for a pleasant cook-out. The clouds gave an exaggerated view of skyglow from the site. Tucson, Phoenix and Nogales are all visible but indications are that, under clear conditions, the glow will be similar to the Buenos Aires Wildlife Sanctuary. A public star party at Donaldson Elementary School was well attended but again the skies were a bit uncooperative (a few sucker holes but otherwise cloudy). was refreshing to know that these little kids are thinking though, 'cause they asked the best questions!

Now for a confession. I missed the peak of the Leonid meteor shower this past month. If anybody witnessed the peak as it occurred on the early morning of Monday, Nov. 18 please call me or see me before intermission at the December meeting so you can describe your experiences to everyone. Please note that another good shower, the Geminids, will take place during the early hours of Saturday, Dec. 14, after the Moon has set! If anyone is interested in going to Empire Ranch early that morning call or see me at the monthly meeting.

Before I forget, I recieved a copy of the Ross Null optical test software discussed in Telescope Making magazine (#45). Let me know if you want a

Finally, don't forget the partial lunar eclipse starting at 1:25am the morning of Saturday, Dec. 21. you early risers that join me for the Geminid shower may want to catch this one!

Please note the star parties coming up this month. Until later, may stars get in your eyes!

NOTICE: Bruce Walsh has just experienced the THEFT of his blue 14 1/2", f4.2, Guno collapsible truss Dobsonian telescope and accompanying blue mirror cell which is signed If you have information on the whereabouts of the instrument or see it for sale CALL POLICE (911) and/or BRUCE WALSH AT 325-7457.

More Comet News!

Congratulations to the Shoemaker - Levy team after discovering two more comets in November. That makes 4 comets in the 5 week period ending on November 13! Unfortunately, only Shoemaker - Levy 1991a1 will be relatively bright and have a favorable apparition this next summer for Northern Hemisphere observers.

Grand Canyon Star Party - Take 2

The Grand Canyon Superintendent has responded favorably to continuing the public star party we instituted last year. I am hoping to get national press and get a much higher telescope to public ratio. Tentative dates are 30 May - 7 June, 1992. Housing arrangements are still up in the air. Probably all we can guarantee are some reserved camp sites, but there is a chance that dorm space will be available again. With the later date this next spring, we can expect much larger crowds, but since we are having it during the summer months hopefully we can get a better astronomer turnout. Mark it on your calendar and plan to attend!

Galileo Update by Brad Becker

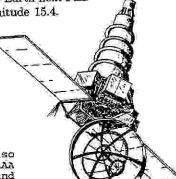

Mission scientists were delighted to present the first ever image of an asteroid, Gaspra, during the Galileo Press Briefing at Jet Propulsion Laboratories on November 14th. Navigation was so accurate that of the nine images taken at a range of 16,000 kilometers, only the center image was transmitted. Each image is 800 by 800 pixels and it is estimated that the center of gravity of the asteroid was located at pixel 400:400, quite a feat!

The image of Gaspra showed a body approximately 20 x 11 x 12 km which had obviously suffered one catastrophic collision after another over roughly the past 300 to 500 million years. With a resolution of about 160 meters, individual craters could be seen ranging in size from about 0.2 km to about 1.7 km. "Facets" were visible which suggested major fractures from prior collisions some of which probably split the original "parent" body. Surprisingly, for a body with such a weak gravitational field, even at this resolution the surface appeared smoothed or rounded. This suggests that there may be a thin (perhaps 3 to 10 meters) layer of dust or "regolith". Several weeks hence, the three images (which were taken at 8.7 second intervals and through different color filters) will be combined to produce a color image of the asteroid.

Additional higher resolution images are stored on Galileo's tape recorder and the scientists are naturally impatient to get them sent to Earth. If the high gain antenna can be freed, each image can be transmitted in about a minute. Failing that, the images take up to 80 hours at 40 bits per second and transmission may have to wait until next Spring or until Galileo again approaches Earth next Fall. The approximate position of Gaspra on December 7th is: 18.54 RA, -20.9 DEC at magnitude 15.4.

KITT PEAK MUSEUM

Volunteer Program

Share your interest in astronomy Become a volunteer with the kitt peak Museum

Each year, over 100,000 people visit the Observatories. As a volunteer, you can help communicate to our visitors the excitement of scientific research and the wonders of the Universe.

Our volunteer educators (docents) will meet professional astronomers from around the world and see firsthand the tools of modern astronomy.

This is an extraordinary opportunity for anyone interested in astronomy or science in general. Kitt Peak volunteers will acquire work experience in an unique environment while, at the same time, helping the Observatory fulfill its mission to the public.

We are looking for Volunteers of all ages, from all walks of life, and all backgrounds. We do not require prior knowledge of Astronomy. All we are looking for is a willingness to learn. Transportation to the Observatories is provided from Tucson.
